HOW WE MET

SOME STORIES JUST FEEL LIKE HOME

It was a rainy Tuesday morning when our paths first crossed. One of us was looking for a stronger coffee, the other for a quiet table. Instead, we found each other.

What started as a simple conversation over cappuccinos quickly turned into hours of laughter, shared dreams and a surprising number of coincidences.

We talked about travel, good food, family, and all the places we still wanted to see. By the time the café closed, we did not want the conversation to end.

Some people believe in fate, others in timing. We believe in both. Because sometimes the most ordinary moments lead to the most extraordinary love stories.

Still choosing you.
